THE OHIO DEMOCRACY.

[From the Boston Advertiser]

The Democratic journals in this part of the country are likely to have a serious business in the endeavor to persuade the believers in honest money that their party can be trusted. The resolutions of the Indiana State convention have already been published, and the World has pronounced that part of the platform treating of the financial obligations of the government "a very dead horse." Now we have the opening notes of this year's campaign of the Ohio Democracy. The Democratic convention in the fourteenth district, comprising Ashland, Crawford, Holmes, Richland and Wyandotte counties, which two years ago elected John Berry, a Democratic Congressman, by nearly four thousand majority, held its convention the other day and resolved on the financial question in this manner —

That the present amount of the circulating medium of the United States is entirely insufficient to meet the wants of the business and industrial interests of the country; that it should be increased to a sum more commensurate with our necessities, and should be all in legal tenders instead of part legal tenders and part national bank circulation, that it is a suicidal policy to call in legal tender notes, held by the people without interest, in order to substitute for them gold bearing interest bonds, and that the exertions of the administration to that end deserve our severest censure

That while we are burdened with a debt of twenty-five hundred million dollars, carrying with them an immense interest, and accompanied with great annual expenses in other respects, it is not practicable to return to specie payments, and that an attempt to do so would entail unspeakable financial ruin.

The convention in the thirteenth district, now represented by M. I. Southard, Democrat, was held last Tuesday Mr Southard was renominated The platform, which was unanimously adopted, contains the following exposition of doctrine on the finances —

That we are in favor of the redemption of the 5-20 bonds in greenbacks, according to the law under which they were issued

We are in favor of the repeal of the law of March, 1869, which assumed to construe the law so as to make such bonds payable exclusively in gold.

That we believe the interest and prosperity of the country demand a sound, sufficient system of currency, secure to the people by the faith of the nation, adequate to meet the wants and demands of the industries of the country, and one that will adapt itself to any and all emergencies which the business of the country may have to encounter, looking all ways to a safe return of specie circulation:

It remains to see what the State convention that will meet in a few days will do Last year the Democrats carried the State, electing William Allen Governor, chiefly by the exertions of Senator Thurman Senator Thurman is a hard money Democrat, and so is the Governor Clearly there will be a struggle in the convention to settle the point whether Thurman or Pendleton is the right representative of the party If Pendleton comes off victor, as is possible, we may look to see him loom up again as a candidate for the Presidency, ruling the sun spangled party from which he was thrown in 1868. In that case there can be no hope of a clear utterance by the Democracy on the financial question. The party will have to equivocate or split This an opportunity would be made for the Republicans to re establish the prestige on the higher ground

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

We clip the following expressions of opinion by the press on the successive phases of the great scandal

The Boston Transcript says that Mrs. Tilton's character is perfectly mirrored in her exposition, and that 'the actual presentment thus given to the world is that of confiding, trustful, outraged womanhood

The Hartford Courant says "Her story is a very sad one, full of tragic interest, and although it is necessarily fragmentary and disconnected, it is difficult to believe that it is not truthful

The N Y Times only comments upon the 'bewildering dialect' which appears in Mrs Tilton's statement as well as in other papers drawn out by the controversy

The Tribune says of the statement 'Most readers will be likely to accept it as true, and in that case, the whole structure of the scandalous insinuation, which has slowly grown up before our eyes during the past few years will disappear like a poisonous exhalation."

The Herald's view is that 'Mrs. Tilton's statement adds nothing new to the case, and, beyond the general detail, extenuates nobody. It is not a pleasant contribution to literature any more than was her husband's, but it was, perhaps, a fatal necessity that it should be written, to perfect one of the most remarkable scandals ever known '

The World says of the statement 'In that piteous strained voice,' we hear the accents of truth. But along with her own exculpation it will vividly suggest a more charitable judgment of the man whom she has left, than has hitherto seemed possible to Theodore Tilton sane!'

The Providence Journal says 'Who presents some facts that illustrate the startling vagaries of her husband's mind, reluctantly reveals the morals these vagaries made upon her home life, narrates Tilton's halting and uncertain course in the matter of these scandals, and calling her honor one day and assailing it the next; and solemnly calling herself before God to be innocent of the crimes he finally laid upon her, and declaring that Henry Ward Beecher never offered to her an indecorous or improper proposal. Mrs. Tilton's story will win confidence and sympathy'

The Boston Advertiser says "The week closes, certainly, with a much better feeling toward Mr. Beecher than there was at the beginning Mr. Tilton struck with all his force at the first blow; and it must have been a happy moment for him when he saw the effect he produced. There has been no sensation like it in this generation. But the blow was far from being fatal to any one, unless it shall prove to be so to Mr. Tilton himself He is now on the defensive, and is likely to need all the sympathy that can be given him by those who have sears for misfortune.

Giving to the three witnesses the same degree of credit, the statements of Mr Beecher and Mrs Tilton have left very little of the dramatic broadside which was intended to crush them The direct, explicit and comprehensive denial they both give to every essential charge resting upon Mr Tilton's own authority relieved a great deal of anxiety, and has excited a confident hope that everything will be explained, consistently with their innocence and honor."

When, a few days ago, we made our inquiry as to the whereabouts of the Hon. B. F Butler, the great scandal of the age had not assumed its most shocking phase, or we should have avoided a needless query. Certain illomened birds are keen of scent and the Brooklyn revelations have promptly attracted the "great criminal lawyer." The public will recollect that the "case" in this school for scandal is complete now that Butler strides upon the scene as the counsel of Monlton and the festive companion of his client and Tilton at Delmonico's. Butler, it will be remembered, was counsel for Woodruff & Robinson in the famous suit against them for defrauding the revenue, and Moulton, as a member of the firm, had the management of the business. In his present congenial atmosphere the General will doubtless forget the vexations of the recent past and revel in the prospect of swaggering again into notoriety. If there is any "lower depth" than Tilton has yet reached the doughty General may be relied upon to sound it.

The Albany Journal, referring to the renomination of the Maine Congressional delegation, says that that State is in danger of losing the place of Massachusetts as the ultra representative of New England.

THE BEECHER INQUEST.

TILTON CROSS-EXAMINED—BLOWING HOT AND COLD—HE PROPOSES TO EXONERATE BEECHER, IF HE WOULD LEAVE THE PULPIT.

[From the N. Y. Tribune]

The several examinations of Mr. Tilton by the Committee have been of a very searching character. One of the Committee stated yesterday to a Tribune reporter that the Tilton was to make both Mr. Tilton's and Mr. Beecher's verbal explanations as full and complete as possible, and that Mr. Beecher would be subjected to a more rigorous examination than Mr. Tilton had been. In fact, Mr. Beecher had been informed that he must prepare himself for a severe ordeal, as not only the charges in Mr. Tilton's statements; but his insinuations in his cross-examination, would be inquired into. The reputations of both men are to be thoroughly investigated. The Committee informed Mr. Tilton of this on his first appearance before them, and under singular circumstances. On his first appearance before the Committee, he made the proposition that, if Mr. Beecher would leave the pulpit and his sacred office he [Mr. Tilton] would submit a statement justifying him, and setting all scandal at rest. The Committee laughed at the proposition, and Mr. Tilton was provoked into alluding to Mr. Beecher as a coward Mr. Sage, Chairman of the Committee, replied at once. "Whatever Mr. Beecher may be, sir, this Committee is not composed of cowards. It intends to go to the bottom of this matter, and somebody will be hurt." It is believed that, in the hope that Beecher would accept, Tilton wrote the statement referred to by Mrs. Tilton as having been acceptable to her, and as being read to Mr. and Mrs. Oungton

TILTON'S PERSONAL RELATIONS.

Subsequent examinations of Mr. Tilton were intended by Mr. Tracey, the lawyer of the Committee, to break down his statement as to the character of his ideal home before Mr Beecher invaded it, and his own course of life for years previous to the alleged infidelity of his wife. He was asked concerning his alleged intimacy with four other women than Mrs. Victoria C. Woodhull. These were named to him, but it is only proper to state publicly that they were represented to be lecturers. Tilton was furious at being asked these "insulting questions," except in one instance where Mr Tilton knew he was not guilty. This question Mr. Tilton answered with great grace by an explicit denial, but in every instance where the lawyer had evidence of the alleged infidelity, it was confirmed by Mr. Tilton's falling into a rage. Among other questions, Mr. Tracy asked if Mr. Tilton's intimacy with public lecturers, speakers and women's rights reformers of the gentle sex had not greatly disturbed the peace of his home He answered, "O yes; Elizabeth was very much annoyed that I ever should associate with such persons. She said they were not sound in theology; they were heretics, and exercised a baleful influence on me. 'She hated,' she said, 'such women as Mrs. Henry B. Stanton and Mrs. Woodhull' She said 'they were on the wrong side always.' She feared I was going to be led astray." When asked as to the name of the correspondent, whom he addressed as "his complaining friend" in a letter urging that the scandal should be forgotten, Mr. Tilton admitted there was no such friend, and that the letter was a device of his to quiet the scandal He added "Elizabeth told me at the time that it would make it worse."

MR TILTON'S RELIGION

His religious belief was inquired into, and in this way he came to make the following impassioned and impious statement: "One great grievance of my life was that I was not a clergyman. Thank God, I am not a minister! I want you to put it down, Mr Stenographer I despise the Church. I saw the cowardice of the Church in the great anti-slavery fight, and it has always been false. But Elizabeth has always had a reverence for the Church, and she has been greatly disturbed because I could not receive the doctrine of the divinity of the Lord Jesus Christ. I could not receive it. I had to reject it, and it disturbed her very much It is a sort of keystone to her whole faith that Christ is divine, and my refusal to believe it has been the subject of many conversations and many of her prayers She spends whole hours on her knees in prayer. A whiter-souled woman does not live to-day than Elizabeth Tilton."

THE WOODHULL WOMAN.

During the examination on Tuesday, Mr. Tilton stated facts which proved incontestably that he was himself the sole inspiration of the Woodhull scandal, and that he gave Mrs. Woodhull all the alleged facts on which her exposure was founded Among other things, in answer to the question whether he had said anything to Mrs. Woodhull reflecting on the integrity of Beecher before Mrs. Woodhull published her scandal, Tilton said. "Oh, yes, I gabe her my opinion of him very freely." It has also come to light that Tilton did his best to induce Mr. Beecher to preside over Mrs. Woodhull's meeting, and used as an inducement the necessity of conciliating Mrs. Woodhull, who, he said, was in possession of damaging rumors concerning him; and would possibly use them against him, if he told Beecher he had better look out, or Mrs Woodhull would injure him.

THE CONFESSION.

He stated incidentally that one of Mr Beecher's letters, from which he had extracted a few lines only, was several pages in length, but he refused to show the whole of it The "confession" alluded to is the one forced from Mrs. Tilton by her husband when vergin, afterwards retracted at Mr. Beecher's request, and supposed to have been destroyed when Mr Beecher gave up Mrs. Tilton's retraction It is now understood that the "confession" was not destroyed, but is in the hands of Frank Moulton. Mrs. Tilton says she never saw this "confession," even when signing it, and again reiterates its falsehood

It is proper to state that Mr Tilton has since vehemently complained of the inaccuracy of the reports of the proceedings, and especially denies having admitted that he was the author of the Woodhull scandal. The Tribune however, after noting his denial, emphatically says that each fact in its report was confirmed before being used. The Herald also quotes Mr Tracy as saying that the report of the cross examination was wonderfully correct, though he positively denied having anything to do with its publication. It appears that the interview of Mr. Sage with Tilton was at the latter's request, and all kinds of compromise are indignantly repudiated. Mr. Oungton says that the last time Tilton was in his house, he sagely declared: "I'll pull down Plymouth Church and Henry Ward Beecher, even though, like Samson of old, I am buried in the ruins."

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL

The only Republican journal in New York which has openly opposed the nomination of Guv Dix has hauled down its flag

Commissioner Douglass positively denies the reports that he intends to resign to accept a judgeship in eastern Pennsylvania

The workingmen's party of Tennessee met in convention at Nashville, on Wednesday and nominated Mr B F C. Brooks as Governor.

Senator Morton has yielded to a request from several Republicans to take the stump in the coming election in Indiana, and will make his first speech at Terre Haute at an early day.

The newspapers of New Jersey, without regard to party, are urging upon the Republicans of the Fifth District of that State the importance of returning Hon. William Walter Phelps to Congress.

This time the People's Convention in Somerset county is a delegate affair on the basis of both Presidential votes, and is addressed to all opponents of the present Administration, and who are in favor of Economy, Honesty and Fidelity, (each with a capital letter) and will assemble at Norridgewock, Aug. 20 —Press.

The Hartford Courant thinks that, if it had been possible, the Democratic Legislature of that State would have removed judges of probate, sheriffs, etc., as did the New Hampshire body, for every Republican police judge, the only officer it could reach, has been turned out to make room for utterly unfit men.

The North Carolina, Kentucky and Tennessee elections, all on Aug. 6, are next in order. North Carolina elects eight Congressmen, a Legislature, Judges, etc., also, by general ticket, a Clerk of the Court of Appeals. Tennessee elects only county officers. Both Kentucky and Tennessee elect their Congressmen in November, when Tennessee also elects a Governor and Legislature.

H. M. Stanley has addressed a letter to a gentleman at Nottingham, in answer to the question whether he is of the same opinion as the late Dr. Livingstone respecting the way of epidemic Equator by travellers. Mr. Stanley replies to the effect that a man who needs the support of such liquors is unfit to travel in Africa, and that a drunkard cannot stand a tropical climate.

Certainly the farmers never had more reason to think well of the clerk of the weather than during the splendid haying time of the past ten days or fortnight. Probably more hay has been housed in the same number of days, and in better condition, than has been known before for years. The great good fortune in securing the crops in such excellent condition will go far towards making amends for the drawbacks earlier in the season.

Dr. SCHENCK'S

Pulmonic Syrup Sea Weed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills.

These medicines have, undoubtedly performed more cures of Consumption than any other remedy known to the American public. They are composed of vegetable ingredients, and contain nothing which can be injurious to the human constitution.

Other remedies advertised as cures for Consumption, probably contain opium, which is a powerful dangerous drug in all cases, and if taken freely by consumptive patients, it must do great injury; for its tendency is to confine the morbid matter in the system, which, of course, must make a cure impossible.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is warranted not to contain a particle of opium. It is composed of powerful but harmless herbs, which act on the lungs, liver, stomach and blood, and thus correct all morbid secretions, and expel all the diseased matter from the body. These are the only means by which consumption can be cured, and Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Sea Weed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills are the only medicines which operate in this way. It is obvious they are the only genuine cure for Consumption. Each bottle of this invaluable medicine is now accompanied by full directions.

Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, corner Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, every Monday, and at the Quincy House, Boston, on the following Wednesday, June 10th, and 24th, July 8th and 22d, and August 5th and 19th.

THE GREAT SCANDAL!

INTERVIEW WITH TILTON!

TESTIMONY OF MRS. TILTON'S MOTHER!

Tilton's Cross-Examination Made Public!

NO NEW REVELATIONS.

NEW YORK, July 25. The morning papers contain no new revelations of importance concerning the Beecher scandal. The testimony before the Investigating Committee last night having been for once kept secret.

WOODHULL DAMAGING TILTON'S CASE.

Victoria Woodhull's arrival and entrance into the arena as a champion of Tilton is regarded on all sides as calculated to seriously damage his case.

MR BEECHER'S TESTIMONY TO BE GIVEN ORALLY.

Mr. Beecher left for Peekskill this morning. His counsel says his testimony will be given orally, and it is not probable that he will be examined until Moulton has made his statement.

AN INTERVIEW WITH TILTON.

The Herald publishes an interview yesterday with Tilton, who in answer to the question if he intended to carry warfare into other families than his own, said that depended upon Gen Tracy If that is a part of his plan of the battle I am ready to meet it. If ladies' names are to be mentioned in connection with mine, I am only retaliate by a counterchange of other names. I have no desire to do it. God knows it is no part of my plan of battle, and it is certainly not necessary for my case, and I should have thought it would be scarcely necessary for Mr. Tracy's SIP THINKS IT WISE TO TAKE THE MATTER BEFORE THE COURTS.

In this connection, said the reporter, there is a threat of the courts, I see, and even that of a criminal prosecution. I am ready for it, promptly replied Mr Tilton, and I think there would be great wisdom in removing the inquiry to some tribunal that could compel the attendance of witnesses, and take their evidence on oath. The present committee, although composed of very honorable and worthy men, has no such power. I say again, I am ready to meet this charge in open court any time. If I am a libeller, I am amenable for my transgression of the laws of the State to further conversation with Mr. Tilton, he reiterated "I have other proofs of the adultery of Mrs. Tilton than her confession, and proofs so positive so direct, that their production alone will be to those who meet them a silent witness that will be worse than death to those who challenge their production."

OVERTURES FOR A COMPROMISE ALLEGED.

Is there any chance of a compromise in this matter, Mr. Tilton?

I think not, the time has gone by for that I have been approached in that direction very lately—since this investigation began; I may say since my statement has been before the committee. In answer to your question I may say I have gone further and have suggested a mode of settlement that would effectually stay the present public excitement It may yet be accepted. I scarcely think it will, though

MOULTON'S STATEMENT—A PECULIAR NATURE.

Have you any idea what Moulton's course will be?

I have not, except that I am sure he will speak the truth or adopt some honorable way of avoiding the speaking of it I have a very strange nature, and if sometimes with it we are very different one. That nature has prevented my asking Moulton what course he intends to take. I am represented as cold, pitiless and heartless This is all on the surface I am proud and have a very strong will. That it has impels me out in this course, unrelenting and inexorable, apparently I cannot help it.

Should the committee render in favor of Mr Beecher, (a very probable result) may I ask you, Mr Tilton, what will then be your course?

AN ACTION FOR DIVORCE

I shall commence an action for divorce What can I do otherwise, I should like to know in the present condition of this terrible trouble?

THE INTERVIEW BETWEEN SAGE AND TILTON.

The World says in reference to the private interview which Mr Sage, Chairman of the Committee, had with Mr. Tilton Friday, it has been ascertained that the meeting was arranged to see if the investigation could not be brought to a close by the withdrawal of the charges Tuesday afternoon Mr Tilton said to the Committee: "This matter must not go on any further, it must be dropped if it can be dropped now" They said this could be arranged if he would only withdraw his charges and write a statement to be given to Mr Beecher that the charges were false and had arisen under misapprehension. He said he would consider the matter, and at the interview with Mr. Sage, asked for, nothing was done, however, by him at that interview to carry out such an arrangement, and thus the matter rests.

ABOUT THE STATEMENT ENCOURAGING BEECHER AND MRS. TILTON.

Reporter—I understand the Committee is in possession of a copy of the statement prepared by Tilton the day after his reconciliation with his wife, a statement exonerating Beecher, praising his wife, and more especially praising himself?

Yes, there is such a document I am told, but we have not seen it Our counsel has, however, and the purport of it was to exonerate Beecher fully. What is your

REPORTER'S MEAN OF ASKING?

Well, that is hardly decided upon as yet We have a number of witnesses to examine Beecher has not had an opportunity of saying anything.

MR BEECHER'S STATEMENT.

He will get his statement out as soon as possible, about Wednesday, and when he has done so we shall examine him. The Committee will sit again to morrow. We all think

MRS TILTON HAS TOLD HER STORY TRULY and she is greatly to be pitied Tilton is acting as falsely as he can to all of the Committee and to Beecher.

The World remarks editorily: "It is very satisfactory to be informed as we now are that the most important witnesses who remain to be examined by the Plymouth Church Committee in Brooklyn are likely to appear and be heard to morrow evening."

MRS. MORSE'S TESTIMONY — THE DOMESTIC UNHAPPINESS IN TILTON'S FAMILY.

The World publishes the testimony of Mrs. Morse, mother of Mrs. Tilton, before the Investigating Committee, Friday night. The lady's statement had no material bearing on the more important points involved in the investigation, but was wholly confined to the nature of the domestic unhappiness that had sprung up between husband and wife. She said that, shortly after the marriage of her daughter to Mr. Tilton, domestic difficulties arose between them, in consequence of Tilton's peculiar tendencies to believe in and practice queer doctrines. Mrs. Morse testified that Mrs. Tilton had come to her many times with bitter complaints of her husband's actions. She complained that her domestic happiness was becoming completely destroyed by the introduction into her home, through Tilton's agency, of people, and particularly women, with free love doctrines and other strange socialistic beliefs. Mrs. Tilton had repeatedly told her that among the number were some women who had reached unfortunate prominence from the practice of such doctrines, and that Mr. Tilton likewise believed in the doctrines they preached.

CONTINUED ILL-TREATMENT OF MRS. TILTON.

Mrs Morse further testified that Mrs. Tilton had frequently come to her broken in spirit, saying "that her lot had become unendurable," her house a place of resort for such people, and Tilton refused to change his course. She spoke of continued ill-treatment from Tilton toward his wife during all their married life.

THE CROSS-EXAMINATION OF TILTON—THE ALLEGED IMPROPER GAMES.

The World also gives the following extract from Tilton's cross-examination:

Mr Beecher, Mrs. Beecher, Mr. Tilton and Mrs Tilton were in the parlor, Mr. Tilton said, when Beecher improperly caressed Mrs. Tilton, as set forth in the accuser's statement. The question was asked, "How did anything improper occur as you alleged?

Ans.—After a friendly chat my wife took a seat on the sofa and Mr. Beecher went to her side and seated himself on the floor. He was very talkative with her, but of course I paid no attention to what he was saying. I was in conversation with Mrs. Beecher. He took off the table prior to sitting down a portfolio and commenced showing her the engravings. It was during this time I saw Beecher caress her and touch her ankle with his hand.

Question—You say Beecher touched her ankle, was it an accident, do you think?

Ans—I do not know. I can't say whether it was intentional or not "I did not think much about it at the time, and never mentioned it to her until my attention was called to subsequent occurrences.

THE ALLEGED BEDCHAMBER SCENE.

Speaking of the 8th charge made against Beecher, Tilton said, I remember the occasion very well; I went out early in the morning, and came back in the course of the forenoon, and went to my bedroom, and found the door locked, and knocked, and Mrs. Tilton opened it. As I went in, I found Mr. Beecher quietly sitting in a chair. When Mr. Beecher left, she spoke about it. She said the children and the neighbors' children made such a racket, she had taken Mr. Beecher out of their way, as she wanted to talk to him quietly and privately on religious matters.

Question—Did you consider that statement satisfactory?

Ans.—I did. I was quite content with the statement, knowing her religious habits. There were two rooms on the second floor of the house, which communicated with each other by folding doors. One of the rooms was used as a sitting and reception room and the other as a bed-room. It was in this room I found Beecher! One of the doors was frequently locked. We could go into the bed-room through the folding doors. Out of the reception room there was a door leading into the two rooms and another into the hallway. I had no suspicion of anything being wrong at the time.

Question—Have you any evidence of any improper conduct on the par of Mr. Beecher?

Ans.—I have none whatever except the evidence of Mrs. Tilton in the confession she made to me.

THE RETIRE CROSS EXAMINATION MADE PUBLIC

NEW YORK, July 26. The Beecher Committee has given out for publication the entire cross-examination, which makes ten columns in the Tribune. Mr. Sage, in a communication accompanying it, says that the direct testimony of Tilton having been published without the element of the Committee, and fragments of the cross-examination, whereby Tilton feels that an injustice has been done him, it is believed, in all fairness to all parties concerned, that the whole of his testimony should be made public at once.

GREAT WATER-SPOUT IN NEVADA!

A PORTION OF EUREKA SWEPT AWAY!

Thirty Lives Lost!

LOSS OF LIFE AND DAMAGE TO PROPERTY BY WATER-SPOUTS.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25. A despatch from Eureka, Nevada, says that a terrible waterspout burst in the mountains yesterday and swept through the town, killing twenty persons and causing great destruction of property. A despatch from Elko says a waterspout crossed the Central Pacific Railroad track between Humbolt Wells and Toano, washing out the track, and a western bound emigrant train was wrecked and five passengers were killed.

LATER REPORTS—NO TRAIN INJURED.

A despatch from Elko says that the reported accident to the western train on the Pacific Railroad near Humbolt Wells, caused by a waterspout washing away the track, is without foundation. A section foreman was run over and lost both legs. The track is so badly injured that trains cannot get through to-day.

FULL PARTICULARS—THIRTY LIVES LOST—A PORTION OF THE TOWN SWEPT AWAY.

A despatch from Eureka, Nevada, gives the particulars of the storm yesterday. It commenced raining with intense fury from early morning till noon, when the cloud burst on a lofty range of mountains to the eastward and a vast volume of water rushed down the canon where the town is located. The eastern part of the town was flooded in ten minutes by a fearful rush of water which constantly increased in violence, depth and impetuosity. The people in that portion of the town were hemmed in and the houses were torn from their foundations and swept away with the occupants. Hopes were procured and brave men thus protected dashed into the flood and saved many lives. Only a few women and children were lost. The body of Mrs. Brady was recovered. Roger Robinett, reporter of the Sentinel, is among the drowned. The Sentinel office was swept away. Bodies are being brought to the Court House as fast as recovered. Three Chinamen were lost, thirty houses were swept away and all that part of the town, containing the dance houses and other places of amusement are gone. The flood lasted only half an hour. The total loss of life is not yet known, but it is believed it will reach 25 or 30 persons. The weather is still threatening.

THE STORM STILL RAGING.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25. Another report from Eureka says the storm is heavier to-day than yesterday, but people are better prepared for it.

THE TURF.

THE SARATOGA RACES.

SARATOGA, July 25. This is the first day of the races and there is a large attendance. The track is in excellent condition. In the first race, one mile three fourths miles, eleven horses started. It was a dead heat for the first place between Acrobat and Attila, Steelayre third. Time 2 59¼. It was decided to run Acrobat and Attila over again after the last race.

The second was a sweepstakes for all ages, $50 entrance; pay or play, with $800 added, one and one-fourth miles. Four horses started. Springfield got off first followed by Kate Dublin and Saxtonet. Springbok won by three lengths. Time 2 06¾.

In the third race for flash stakes, $100 each with $5 added, one-half mile, eight horses started. Oliura won the race. Will Burke was 2d and Australind third. Time 4.07¾.

Aida won the deciding heat for the traverse stakes by a length. Time 3 08¾.

THE INDIAN TROUBLES.

A LETTER FROM FORT SILL—THE WRITER'S OPINIONS ON THE OUTRAGES.

New York, July 25 A Fort Sill letter of the 14th inst. says:—"If the critical state of affairs existing here for three months past has not been properly presented to the authorities at Washington, the officials deserve the condemnation of every living being in the country; but I am convinced that the military authorities at least have presented a true statement of the case to the War Department. Still nothing has been done and no additions made to the troops made. The origin of the trouble can be traced to the murders of the Kiowas. For weeks the Indians have been talking of the great "medicine man," how he descended from some indefinite place to take a seat one night at the council fire; of the ability to render all invulnerable in war against the whites; how he spat dirty dope out of his mouth, etc. These marvels were eagerly swallowed by the young braves, who are anxious for plunder and wonder, and a little legerdemain soon won the conservative element among them to his purposes. From all sides comes the cry for protection against these hostile savages. The peace policy has proved a complete failure and the government should now deal with these creatures as it would with other outlaws."

ARKANSAS.

THE BROOKS DEMONSTRATION.

NEW YORK, July 25. A special from Little Rock, Ark, says that the demonstration there in favor of Brooks, yesterday, passed off without disturbance. The procession numbered about seven hundred and marched through the streets shouting for Brooks. Congressman Haynes, Col. Sullivan and Sheriff Oliver addressed the gathering.

VERMONT.

A MOTHER AND HER TWO CHILDREN DROWNED.

RUTLAND, July 25. While Mrs. Porter of St. Albans and two children were out berrying, yesterday afternoon, one of the children fell in a deep hole in the creek and the mother jumped in after it, followed by the other child. Before assistance came all were drowned.

SHOCKING MURDER.

Near St. Albans, Tuesday evening, a tramp on his way to Canada was attacked by two men who so mauled him, three times, one wound entering the heart. The stabbing was done with a common pocket-knife. The wounded man laid several hours, when he managed to reach a house, where he was [illegible] the bloody deed. It is thought [illegible] will recover.

CHEESE. The best qualities of Western dairy and factory cheese are selling at 12 cents, and there is a good some of the best Ohio factories at about the same figures, though as yet the Western peddlers seems to take the lead.

PRODUCE MARKET

HAY The crop of hay in some localities within marketing distance of this city is reported to be quite a good as last year's and in others considerable less, but on the whole we think there is considerable more than last year. There has been a few loads of new hay on the market during the week, which sold very well, one load of very good quality and sold from $18 to $19 per ton. Old hay is still brought in in fair supply for the demand, most selling at or near prices from $20 to $23 per ton, according to quality. Very nice load sells at $24 per ton

STRAW. Tuscan straw is worth from $7 to $9 and $10 per ton according to quality.

BEANS. There are very few beans of any description in the market, and we quote the marrow and the yellow eyes take the leading quality and price, selling from $3,00 to $3 50 and $3,50, and occasionally a lot of very extra nice, $3 60 per bushel—56 pounds.

BUTTER There has been but very little butter on the market during the past week, and for a good article there seems to be some inquiry. We should quote common and fair lots from 22 to 25 cts, while fine Western dairy would call a right good article, in good condition, to worth from 28 to 32 cts per pound.

EGGS. It would seem that the birds are now taking a summer vacation, as the fruitful fowl industry is somewhat on the wane. Small lots of good fresh eggs are selling current from 28 to 31 cents per dozen.

POULTRY. The supply of poultry is light, with no potatoes, but the demand for them very small and prices nearly nominal. We quote Western fowls for there, if we have any coming in in full supply, and good lots sold in this state at the wing at 18 a 20 per pound.

GREEN PEAS are being in the market from 40 to 50 cents per bushel.

RASPBERRIES are now brought into market quite plenty, and are selling from 10 to 12½ cents per quart, according to quality and condition.

OPENING OF THE WASSAUMKEAG HOTEL. The new Wassaumkeag Hotel at Fort Point was formally opened for the season, Saturday, and the occasion called together a large and brilliant assemblage to enjoy the hospitalities of this popular summer resort. There were already many guests at the hotel as regular boarders, the steamer Cambridge brought a large party from New York, Boston and the down river towns, the Katahdin took down delegations from this city and intermediate places, and numerous guests came by land from the surrounding country, so that when the hour for dinner arrived the spacious dining room was well filled. The dinner was superb, and the landlord, Mr. Ranlet, added new laurels to his fame by the perfection of the service and the excellence of the viands. After ample justice has been done to the banquet, James F. Rawson, Esq, of this city, who had been deputed to act as President of the occasion, called upon Senator Hamlin to open the intellectual feast, which he did in his accustomed able and appropriate manner, closing by introducing Mr. Back of Bucksport, who gave an exceedingly interesting historical account of the building of the old Fort Pownal (on the site of which the hotel stands) by the Governor of Massachusetts Bay, who, with his little army came to the Point in 1759. The later history of the fort was traced by a loving hand, and numerous anecdotes connected with its fortunes were well told and received.

In the evening, after tea, the "hop" commenced, and was continued with great spirit until nearly midnight, old and young alike participating in the enjoyment of the affair. AT 9 P. M. the steamer G. B. Sanford arrived with another delegation from this city, with whom was Barnabee, the inimitable humorist, and his concert company, and they were received with open arms, and joined the merry party on the dancing floor.

The affair was a success throughout, and all who had the good fortune to be present agree in wishing the hotel could be "opened" again in similar manner at least twice a week. The house is rapidly filling up with boarders and bids fair to be one of the most popular resorts on the coast.

THE EXCURSION TO BAR HARBOR, Saturday, under the direction of Norumbega Lodge, Knights of Pythias, was one of the most delightful down-river trips of the season. The favorite steamer City of Richmond was chartered for the excursion, and promptly at the time advertised—12 o'clock—she left her wharf, having on board a large party. The day was charming, and a brisk southwesterly breeze dispelled all fears of a fog and tempered the warm rays of the sun to just the right degree for comfort. The sail down our beautiful river was immensely enjoyed by all, and the upper deck and every point available for sight seeing were occupied by the excursionists. From the mouth of the river "going round"—a portion of the journey where excursionists usually receive a shaking up—there was very little swell, and the swift steamer threaded her way among the numerous islands to her destination with the ease and grace of a swan. Bar Harbor was reached at 6 P. M. and the party went ashore and broke up into smaller groups, some of whom visited friends at the hotels while others wandered about to the various points of interest in this favored locality. Quite a number of excursionists called to pay their respects to Alfred Veazie, Esq., of this city, whose summer residence stands on the finest site on the island, and were very cordially and hospitably received and made welcome. To W. S. Baker, Esq., formerly clerk of the Bangor House, who is now located at Bar Harbor, the party are indebted for many courtesies, and other Bangorians spending the summer here exerted themselves to make the visitors at home. The brief sky of three hours was all too quickly spent, and at nine o'clock the return voyage was begun. The sail home by moonlight was even more delightful than the trip down, and the fine music of the Bangor Cornet Band, which accompanied the excursion, added much to the pleasure of the occasion. The committee of arrangements of the Knights were unsparing of their pains to make everything pleasant, and Capt. Kilby, Mr. Cushing, the Clerk, Mr. Sturtevant the Steward, and the other officers of the steamer, as usual, did everything in their power for the comfort of the passengers. The party arrived at the wharf in this city some time among the "wee sma' hours."

THE RAILWAY MURDER CASE.

"STATE VS. ELEROY W. READ"—THE THREE TRIALS AND THEIR RESULTS—THE EXCEPTIONS OVERRULED—JUDGMENT FOR THE STATE.

Our readers are undoubtedly well acquainted with the facts and incidents of the "Medway murder case" which has been three times tried in this city, and will not be surprised to learn that it has been finally disposed of. A brief resume of the principal points in the case may not be uninteresting, however.

On the 20th of September, 1870, John Ray, a resident of Medway, went out after supper to hunt up a missing cow, and never returned alive On the 28th of the same month his body was found in a h

THE GLORY OF MOTION SOUTH OXFORD SHIRE.

BY E. ST. J. TYRWHITT.

Three twings of the horn, and they re all out of cover!
Must brave you, old bull finch, that's right in the way;
A rush and a bound, and a crash, and I'm over.
They re alone and swing, and fo'ward away!
Fly, Charley, my darling! Fly, and we follow,
Since a no earth or cover for miles upon mile.
We winged with the flight of the stock and the swallow
The hound for the eagle is ours for a while.

The pasture-land knows not of rough plough or harrow,
The hoof echo hollow and soft on the sward,
The soul of the horse goes free as our arrow,
My saddle's a kingdom, and I am its lord.
And rolling and swing beneath us like ocean,
Gray waves of the high ridge and furrow glide on
And small flying faces in musical motion,
Before us, beneath us, behind us, are gone.

Oh pulsant of bone and of sinew swalling,
On these low lies longest for the breaks and the shower!
O white-breasted camel, the week and galloping,
To me the rough one glass of the desert hours!
And, bright in the Barbs, ye make worthy pretence
To go with the king of Solomon's state,
But give me, not the steed, and you fly not the fence,
And all the wide Hayes is bought to the sheen.

O gay gondolier! from thy night-falling shallop
Ye hear the soft pulses of lute and guitar,
But we, at the rapturous call of the gallop,
The lure in the saddle, the flight of the star
Obeyed, our beloved, no slacker or faster
Than ever strode under a man at his need
Be glad in the hand as I embrace of my master,
And pant to the passionate music of speed.

Can there ever be a thought to an elderly person
So free as an image, so hard to forget,
So fully a hand to break into burgeon
As the thrill the steel gives at Spur pot,
That sighing speed ticks one back a brain with a feather
That sing's horse can restore one the years that are gone,
That, in spite of gray winter and wearful weather,
The blood and the pulse stir on carry on?

Albany, March 16th, 1874.

In accordance with the foregoing correspondence, and also upon the invitation of the Insurance Committee of the Assembly of the Legislature of New York State, the Lecture, therein referred to, will be given on Wednesday evening, April 1st, in the Assembly Chamber.

(From the Albany Argus.)

DR. LAMBERT UPON "BIOMETRY"

The crowded state of our columns yesterday's issue compelled us to enter notice of Dr. Lambert's address before the committee of the Legislature, on Wednesday evening. The hopes was crowded by an attentive audience including members of the medical fraternity, the bar and the clergy, and other professional men. The scope of the lecture was to present, in some of its leading principles and features, the subject of "Biometry," or the laws of hereditary descent, as the signs and indications of longevity, as a sound, positive, practicable, and of very great value in its application in all the varied relations of life. He gave practical illustrations referring to strangers in his audience of the signs and indications of longevity—and stated very clearly and succinctly the laws and principles upon which the science rests. The practical use applied by all of hereditary to diseases, were shown to have relation to the inherent capabilities of living. These conditions can all be measured, and a judgment upon them by one who has become even ordinarily expert may be relied upon—especially in determining the proper premiums to be charged in insuring lives. Referring to the "experience" tables in use by the Insurance Companies, their disagreement with each other and their inconsistencies as assumed data were pointed out. It was urged that the only safe and just basis was found in following the teachings of Biometry, and rating each risk upon its own characteristics. The safety as well as the equity of this was shown in the fact, as an illustration, that in the company with which he is connected (the American Popular, which originated the plan, the death losses have been for the last year only between three and four per thousand persons, while some companies have lost as high as twenty-four, and many over ten per thousand—the varying rates of loss being in thousand sos proof of the unreliability of the tables, and of the general average system of insuring all lives of the same age at the same rate. Life insurance, he said, is simply protection of the family in case of the death of its head, and the simple and common sense method is found in the payment, year by year, of the natural premium representing the mortality belonging properly to that year,—the "Term Life Increasing Premium,"—at low cost, without surplus, without "dividends," without speculation, without deception.

Dr. Lambert was appropriately introduced by Dr. Carpenter, of the Assembly, and was listened to throughout his long address with marked attention.

No other company in the world applies these principles, or gives the advantages of a lower rate of premium to those possessed of the natural inheritance of long life.

The only questions with them are sound health and the general average mortality of a given age.

The AMERICAN POPULAR, by its gradation of risks, insures each according to the individual characteristics of the risk.

It fixes the premium rate accordingly without any special reference to the age.

Its premiums are based therefore upon the actual risk of the individual, charging him only the cost of carrying his risk.

This is JUST, EQUITABLE and SAFE.

Eight years' experience has proved these facts.
